

Person Specification

This form lists the essential and desirable requirements needed in order to do the job.

Applicants will be shortlisted solely on the extent to which they meet these requirements.

Job title: LSE Fellow in Media, Communication and Development

Department: Media and Communications

Accountable to: Head of Department

Competency	E/D
Completed PhD in Media and Communications or closely related discipline/field with a focus on communication inequality in the global south (doctoral examination/viva to be completed before post start date).	E
Evidence of high quality teaching at the postgraduate level.	E
Interest in contributing to teaching Critical Approaches to Media, Communication and Development, Postcolonial theory, and Discourse Analysis methods.	E
Experience of teaching Discourse Analysis and Media, Communication and Development theories from a critical perspective.	E
A developing research record in in the field of Media and Communications, with evidence of a commitment to critically assessing theories and empirical research.	E
Excellent communication and presentation skills.	E
A demonstrable commitment to equality and diversity in Higher Education.	E
Experience of managing and contributing to course virtual learning environments (e.g. Moodle).	E
Evidence of a commitment to high quality, innovative teaching and fostering a positive and supportive learning environment with students.	D
The ability to work in close partnership with fellow teachers, including on a one-on-one basis and in small groups, and to provide effective support, as necessary	D

Experience of supervising postgraduate master's dissertations.	D
Experience in carrying out course management and administration.	D

E – Essential: requirements without which the job could not be done.

D – Desirable: requirements that would enable the candidate to perform the job well.