Job title: Sustainability Projects Officer

Department/Division: Estates Division

Accountable to: Head of Sustainability

Job Summary:

Working as a member of the LSE Sustainability Team, this post will support the Head of Sustainability in delivering a range of projects to fulfil the School's Environmental Sustainability Policy commitments.

This includes maintaining LSE's ISO 14001 Environmental Management System, delivering initiatives to enhance the School's environmental impacts, and delivering training and engagement programmes to students and staff.

Duties and Responsibilities

Service Delivery

- Maintain and develop LSE's ISO 14001 / 50001 joint-certified Environmental and Energy Management System.
- Manage procedures to control LSE's environmental impacts and ensure compliance with environmental regulation.
- Develop and implement innovative new initiatives to improve LSE's sustainability impacts, acting on initiative to develop solutions to challenges.
- Integrate sustainability values and practices in all LSE departments.
- Apply for funding for specific sustainability initiatives.
- Deliver agreed targets to agreed timeframes and standards.

Communication:

- Lead the development and implementation of LSE's sustainability engagement programme (including website, public relations, printed materials, events, etc).
- Communicate sustainability information clearly to staff, students and the public, acting as an ambassador for sustainability at LSE.
- Log requests for information and monitor response times and feedback from customers.
- Create and deliver a sustainability training programme for students and staff.
- Liaise with colleagues in the Estates Division and across the LSE community to share knowledge, and record agreed actions and progress.

Planning and Organising

- Plan and organise own workload in line with the School's objectives.
- Monitor projects against agreed timescales and deliverables.

Teamwork and motivation

- Play an active role as a member of the Sustainability Team, Estates Division and LSE; motivate colleagues to progress the Environmental Sustainability Policy.
- Ensure effective prioritisation of work, knowing when to refer to other members of the team
- Flexible and willing to be involved in a variety of ad hoc projects.

Liaison and Networking

- Collaborate with students, staff and external partners to develop and deliver projects.
- Maintain good communication links with students and staff to facilitate effective collaborative working.
- Network with external colleagues, industry bodies and others, to maintain relevant and up to date skills and knowledge and share best practice.

Analysis and research

- Contribute data and information to develop business cases for sustainability projects.
- Collate and report on environmental performance data to support management decisions, including through presentations and written papers to management committees.
- Collate and report data to external benchmarking frameworks.

Knowledge and Experience

- Knowledge and experience of environmental management.
- Experience of project administration and management to agreed budgets, reporting and monitoring mechanisms and timeframes.
- Creative and innovative thinker and problem-solver, who can formulate ideas and appropriately execute them.
- Ability to deal efficiently and professionally with a wide range of stakeholders, including at senior levels.
- An excellent communicator, with strong written and verbal skills and an excellent command of English.
- Strong IT, clerical and administrative support skills including in-depth command of Microsoft packages; social media experience an advantage.

Note:

The LSE has a progressive pay structure that rewards you with annual pay increases up to a certain level as you develop in your role. We also provide for further reward past this point in the form of further pay increases based on exceptional performance.

Flexibility

To deliver services effectively, a degree of flexibility is needed, and the post holder may be required to perform work not specifically referred to above.
