

Job Description

This form summarises the purpose of the job and lists its key tasks. It is not a definitive list of all the tasks to be undertaken as those can be varied from time to time at the discretion of the School, in consultation with the postholder.

Job title: LSE Fellow in Media and Communications

Department: Media and Communications

Accountable to: Head of Department

Job Summary

The postholder will lead the teaching on a new undergraduate course, Showcase Portfolio: Media, Power and Communications Practice. They will also contribute to core teaching of master's level theories and methods courses in addition to lecture and seminar teaching. The postholder will act as an academic mentor to master's students and supervise their dissertations. The postholder will contribute to the research culture of the Department and undertake administrative tasks in the Department. The postholder may also support other areas of the Department's strategic development, which may include extended education.

Duties and Responsibilities

Teaching

- Contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the Department and School by conducting teaching and research which will enhance the School's reputation as a research-led teaching institution, with appropriate mentoring from within the Department.
- Teaching on a new undergraduate course, Showcase Portfolio: Media, Power and Communications Practice, preparing and delivering teaching materials for lectures, seminars, and coursework
- Teaching and examining master's level students through lectures, seminars, coursework and supervising master's dissertations, including participating in dissertation workshops and referring supervisees to expert advisers where appropriate.
- Identifying learning needs of students; helping to define learning objectives and providing appropriate support.
- Acting as an academic mentor and providing pastoral care to students.
- Holding regular office hours for students (3 hours per week during term time).
- Marking formative and summative assessments and providing feedback.
- Participating in regular meetings with academic and professional services colleagues.
- Managing academic administration arising from teaching responsibilities. e.g. class preparation and marking, with guidance as required.

Research

- Conducting research into pressing problems in the Media and Communications field.
- Developing a coherent research strategy in the interdisciplinary Media and Communications field.
- Presenting papers at national and international conferences.

Management and Administration and/or School-wide Service

- Fostering departmental equity, diversity, inclusion and collegiality, and fulfilling individual responsibilities as set out by the Head of Department and/or other senior colleagues.

- Actively contributing to the intellectual life of the Department and School, e.g. attending and participating in Department meetings, joining department working groups, and/or acting as a member of departmental, inter-departmental or School committees.
- Liaising with central and Departmental Professional Services Staff to resolve issues concerning courses, programmes, student welfare, etc.

Flexibility

To deliver services effectively, a degree of flexibility may be required in the duties performed in order to meet the exigencies of service. Job roles may also naturally develop over time and ongoing substantial changes to a role will be discussed between line managers and their staff, with job descriptions updated as and when appropriate.

Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI)

LSE is committed to building a diverse, equitable and truly inclusive university. All posts (and post holders) will seek to ensure diversity and inclusion, while opposing all forms of unlawful and unfair discrimination on the grounds of age, disability, gender identity, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, nationality, ethnic or national origin, religion or belief, sex and sexual orientation, or social and economic background.

Ethics Code

Posts (and post holders) are assumed to have a responsibility to act in accordance with the School's Ethics Code and to promote the principles and values that the Code enshrines. The Ethics Code clearly states that the whole LSE community, including all staff, students, and governors of LSE, are expected to act in accordance with the principles which are set out in the Code. As such you are required to read and familiarise yourself with it. The School's Effective Behaviours Framework is designed to support this Code. It sets out examples for the six behaviours that all staff are expected to demonstrate, these can be found on the following link: click here

Environmental Sustainability

The post holder is required to minimise environmental impact in the performance of the role, and actively contribute to the delivery of the LSE Environmental Policy.