

Job Description

This form summarises the purpose of the job and lists its key tasks. It is not a definitive list of all the tasks to be undertaken as those can be varied from time to time at the discretion of the School, in consultation with the postholder.

Job title: LSE Fellow in International Migration

Department/Centre/Institute: European Institute    Accountable to: Head of Department

Job Summary

The Fellow will be based in the European Institute and will contribute to teaching on the MSc in International Migration and Public Policy programme, which is shared between the European Institute and Departments of Government and Sociology. It is expected that the Fellow will have an emerging and promising record of research and teaching in one of the disciplinary fields within this area (political science, sociology, economics, or related fields). The Fellow will join LSE's world-leading and vibrant research community in the social sciences and be a full member of the European Institute. Faculty will ensure the integration of the post-holder into that research and learning community, in which s/he will be expected to play a full part.

Duties and Responsibilities

- Contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the School by conducting teaching and research which will enhance the School's reputation as a research-led teaching institution, with appropriate mentoring from department.
- Supervising, teaching and examining undergraduate and masters level students through lectures, seminars, course work and tutorial.
- Identifying learning needs of students; helping to define learning objectives and to provide appropriate support.
- Acting as a personal academic mentor to students and providing pastoral care.
- Supervising personal tutees for their end of year dissertation, participating in dissertation workshops throughout the year and referring supervisees to expert advisors where appropriate.
- Holding regular office hours for students on the course (at least 2 hours per week).
- Providing formative and summative feedback on assessments.
- Undertaking examination-related duties, such as exam and dissertation marking, as required.
- Participating in regular teaching meetings, with academics and administrators involved in the course, with appropriate mentoring.
- Managing academic administration arising from teaching responsibilities – e.g. class preparation and marking, with guidance as required.

Note

The LSE has a progressive pay structure that rewards you with annual pay increases up to a certain level as you develop in your role. We also provide for further reward past this point in the form of further pay increases based on exceptional performance.

Flexibility

To deliver services effectively, a degree of flexibility is needed, and the post holder may be required to perform work not specifically referred to above.

Equality and Diversity

To uphold the School's commitment to equality of respect and opportunity, as set out in the Ethics Code, we will treat all people with dignity and respect, and ensure that no one will be treated less favourably because of their role at the School, age, sex, disability, gender identity, race, religion or belief, sexual orientation, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, or social and economic background. For the full Equity, Diversity and Inclusion policy statement, please see the EDI website.

Environmental Sustainability

The post holder is required to minimise environmental impact in the performance of the role, and actively contribute to the delivery of the LSE Environmental Policy.
