

Person Specification

This form lists the essential and desirable requirements needed in order to do the job.

Applicants will be shortlisted solely on the extent to which they meet these requirements.

Job title: LSE Fellow in Gender Peace and Security

Department/Centre/Institute: Gender Studies Accountable to: Head of Department

Competency	E/D
A PhD in social sciences, humanities or related subject or a closely related subject.	E
A very good knowledge and developing research record of gender peace and security with a focus on one or more of the following: theorising policy and practice relating to the women, peace and security agenda; gendered approaches to peace , conflict resolution, peacekeeping peacebuilding and post-conflict reconstruction; human rights, international law and transitional justice; countering violent extremism, securitisation; political economy approaches to violence; sexuality, embodiment and war; critical military studies; the humanitarian and aid industry or other related fields.	E
Demonstrable knowledge and expertise on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Black feminist and intersectional approaches to Gender Studies and • International feminist and intersectional approaches to studies of gender, peace and security 	E
Experience working with policies, practitioners and professionals in a consultative and/or pedagogic manner in areas related to gender, peace and security	E
The ability to work in close partnership with fellow teachers, including on a one-on-one basis and in small groups, and to provide effective support, as necessary	E
Foster an engaging and supportive learning environment	E
A commitment to equality and diversity	E
Relevant teaching experience at the post-graduate level	E

Excellent communication and presentation skills	E
Experience of managing and contributing to course virtual learning environments (e.g. Moodle)	E
Experience in carrying out course administration	D

E – Essential: requirements without which the job could not be done.

D – Desirable: requirements that would enable the candidate to perform the job well.